RECORDS OF THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT

State Archives Record Group 013

Introduction

The Military Department, established by an Act of the General Assembly in May 1782 (C.R. IV, 138 ff.), has responsibility for administering the Army National Guard, the Air National Guard, the Connecticut Organized Militia and the Naval Militia. According to Sec. 27-1 CGS, "all male citizens and all male residents ... who have declared their intention to become citizens of the United State, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, not exempt by law, shall be subject to military duty and designated as the militia." Any male not enlisted in an organized militia unit or national guard unit is part of the unorganized militia. Female citizens and residents under the same conditions could "enlist voluntarily in any women's unit of the armed forces of the state."

The Governor, as captain-general, is commander-in-chief of the State's armed forces. He appoints the Adjutant General, with the rank of major general, as Department Head. The remainder of the governor's military staff consists of an assistant adjutant general, an air aide-de-camp, a surgeon general, eight aides-de-camp and four naval aides. The governor may appoint honorary staff members who serve without the pay or benefits of active duty members. The governor also has under his command two companies of foot guard and two companies of horse guards. During times of national emergency should the national guard be federalized, the governor may organize from the unorganized militia, a Connecticut State Guard, to replace federalized units.

The state militia originated with the institution of the early colonial trainband. The General Court (7 June 1636; CRI, 2-3) that every town shall maintain "a sufficient watch" and that every soldier shall have in his house two pounds of powder and twenty lead bullets. Later (1 September 1636) the Court provided that every "plantacon shall traine once in every moneth." The 1637 war against the Pequots required raising substantial troops and provisions. This was an important event in the Connecticut militia's evolution as militia service became a major activity of every male citizen's life. From 1815 until 1861, however, the militia was less active placing the Adjutant General in a less significant executive role.

The State Archives has received a large quantity of materials from the Connecticut National Guard, Adjutant's Office in recent years. Due to insufficient staff and resource levels in the State Archives, this material remains unprocessed. It is included, however, in the descriptive register under its accession number. Researchers should note that most of this unprocessed material is located at an off-site facility which limits accessibility as described in the Rules for Researchers available in the History and Genealogy Unit.

While most records came to the State Archives from the Adjutant General, those pertaining to individual units (Series 81-169) were gifts or purchases. Although some personal manuscript materials relating to individual units are included in this record group, most is in RG 69:107. See Related Materials below.

Other Guides and Indexes

A list of annual returns is available for RG 13:06 in the boxes. A list of court martial proceedings is included with materials from RG 13:22 and a list of reports of Civil War engagements involving Connecticut regiments is in RG 13:29.

Related Materials

The "Connecticut Archives," RG 1 contains the bulk of records concerning pre-1820 Connecticut military affairs. The "Connecticut Archives" contains the papers of the General Assembly, the Governor, the Governor and Council, the Comptroller, the Adjutant General and others. Researchers using the "Archives" should look at Indians (1647-1820; 4 volumes), Militia (1659-1820; 39 volumes), Revolutionary War (1756-1856; 99 volumes), War, Colonial (1765-1806; 11 volumes), and War of 1812 (1812-19); 3 volumes.

Many early military records of a personal character such as commissions, diaries, and soldiers' correspondence are part of the classified manuscript collections. Researchers will find an extraordinary amount of manuscripts for the French and Indian War, War of the Revolution, the Civil War and other wars.

RG 12, Records of the State Library, includes War Records Department files which contain, for example, lists of Connecticut members of the armed forces, 1776-1946; service records, 1913-20; and copies of U.S. Army records concerning the 25th Division, 1917-19.

The State Military Census of 1917-18 is in RG 29. The largest portion of this census concerning the 500,000 Connecticut males, 16 years and over, is available on microfilm.

Several picture groups contain images of Connecticut units and individuals from the Civil War through World War II.

RG 5, Incoming Letters to Governors is divided into general letters and military letters. Clerks in the Governor's Office, however, did not consistently distinguish between the categories. These letters are very useful for military history and service record research. These records are being reprocessed for easier access. RG 5 also contains correspondence from the Adjutant General.

Researchers should remember that unit numbers change over time. Published Adjutant General reports are available in State Government Documents Unit. Published regimental histories are found in the History and Genealogy collection. Consult the catalogues, both card and CD ROM, upstairs in General Reference.

Several large record groups donated by veterans or organizations may be useful for individual service information and unit histories. See especially RG 81, 109, 113, 114, 118, 122, 124 and RG 69 Series 04, 21, 23, 50, 63, 64, 81, and 107. Researchers should consult an informational fact sheet regarding Civil War sources in the State Library, available at the History and Genealogy Unit reference desk.

Introduction

The following mélange of materials represents some of the greatest historical events in United States history. Taken from another site, and thus incomplete, these archives include, but are not limited to, documents which relate in some manner to the Adjutant-General's office. Documented here are records pertaining to Connecticut soldiers who may have partaken in the American Revolution, the War of 1812, the Civil War, or the Spanish-American War. The archives representing the aforementioned wars include, among other items, muster rolls, lists of recruits, order books for military posts, and records for veterans' headstones. The published works identified at the end of this list do not pertain directly to the Adjutant General's office, however their subject matter is relevant to the general topic of the military.

[Note: The company identifications for the first 3 regiments of CT Vol. (3 months) are confusing. Some companies are identified as “Rifle”, some “Infantry”. Furthermore companies were given one identification – A, B, C, etc. – by the state when the Regiment was formed, but this designation was changed when the Regiment was mustered into the U. S. forces. See the following volume to straighten this out: “Record of Connecticut Men in the War of the Rebellion 1861-1865 Part I”. Many documents are identified only by the Captain’s name.]

[Note: The company identifications for the first 3 regiments of CT Vol. (3 months) are confusing. Some companies are identified as “Rifle”, some “Infantry”. Furthermore companies were given one identification – A, B, C, etc. – by the state when the Regiment was formed, but this designation was changed when the Regiment was mustered into the U. S. forces. See the following volume to straighten this out: “Record of Connecticut Men in the War of the Rebellion 1861-1865 Part I”. Many documents are identified only by the Captain’s name.]
